IN THE LAST 20 years, the Kerry Blue.
Terrier has constanted to make great progress.
Most of all, samperainent has improved—they are still a horse, sprinch threel but are steader, easier to live with other degs and vateres. In the ring, if lee along, they can vateres. In the ring, if lee along, they can or both as the experience of the same of t

bost of spirit.

Our principal trouble lies in becoming complaces a about the quality of our degs, and in lack of knowledge among the novince. True, we are self unioning groups and shows, but breed does not stand still—and it is up to to be sure that it, improves. If there are going to be fewer lineers, then they must be butter once. In the last few years the Kerry Blue Terrier has reached an all time high in quality, movement, disposition and overall balance. How many of these features are beginning to stip . . . and fast? Those interested in the breed, and we

Those interested in the breed, and we mean the sincere breeders, not those who mean the sincere breeders, not those who show purposes only, are not to biase for the impending problems. TOU SONTY LESS NEIGH TANTANT POR SETTER, BILL BURY, Jack Ries, Cyrnis R. More, William Baker, Rinem McGachern ... their loss the strength of the second section of the section of the second section of the section of t

At a recent show I watched carefully the Open classes in Kerries. It certainly must have been difficult for the judge to sort out this entry, as there appeared to be little. If any, resemblance between them... there really was very little to compare! Color was completely variable, and this one factor is of considerable importance, in our breed more than most. at It is mentioned in the title of the seemed so variable in these classes, that on this day color seemed almost inci-

One of the reasons Kerry Blues are so different in type is due to the fact that breeders seldom work together, as seems more evident in other breeds. It seems that each prefers his own little world or backyard, seldom venturing out to help improve faults which seem to creep into their own strain. Any student of senetics, and we should all be, knows that inbreeding will not only set the desired features of a strain, but also will tend equally to double up on undesirable qualities. Therefore, any such program requires a great deal of thought, experience and skill. . . . Progress is not an accident!

Not too long ago, Kerries were almost desperate for color, quality of cost and refinement. Along came "Pop" Sayres, whose hopes were fulfilled with CH. DEEDS SHOW OFF. a truly great solution, which not only produced good color but the outstanding conformation which put the Kerry in that "best of all time" narason.

"SHOW OFF" is now the leading sire of all time, and included among his many champion get are 16 Best in Show winners among the fifty or more recorded. Since "SHOW OFF" was a grandson of Ch. Michael of Somerset, former recordbreaking sire of quality, who in turn was a son of Topper of Belcrest, another great sire, proves perspotacy is hereditary.

There is no breed in which it is harder to apply the classic examples of breeding and genetic formula than the Kerry, because so few breeders work together. In England, actual formula have been worked out between breeders with outstanding results. One produced four champions in one litter, a record which stood for several years in Great Britain for all breeds. Personalities are not involved in any way. Each good stud, regardless of the popularity of its owner. is given a try by each fancier, after proper matching has taken place with general background. too is worthy of future study. Certain, there is evidence to consider, particularly in the changes in human posture, brought about by exercise and proper conditioning . . the army has done this to thousands of boys!

To aid in our studies, we have had many dogs X-rayed as a means of verification of our measurements of bone lengths, finding that we were well within the expected range of accuracy. We have also found, as a result of the Xrays, some very interesting types of bone formation, especially in the scapula, or shoulder blade. To further our efforts here verification of measurements is being done at Beef Metrics in Topeka, Kansas, where they measure their beef cattle by three dimensional photography, calculating the results by means of plotting machines and computers. We hope to have a separate article on these efforts.

arthur to these cities list of measurements in a future article, do not three up your hands in alarm. There are many, but from these you can draw your dog to scale on graph paper (and you do not need to be an artist, either) other dogs for comparison. You will be amazed at what you will discover! You will probably be even more amazed at the results, if these measurements are Ahove all, do not say you have not the time to waste on such details. If you have time to breed and raise quality dogs, you surely must have time to spend 6 hours of their entire life giving, to make the complete of the control of the conmonth intervals. This will provide you with a complete read and should prove invaluable in establishing the rate of growth of certain bloodlines, etc., and and you in selecting your best pupples. for such purposes as a part of this series.

Finally, measuring in conjunction with slow-motion films of gait is an excellent means of showing how certain bone lengths, angles, placement of parts, etc., influence the gait of a dog, We have already used this method with several of the previously measured "study specimens" with some interesting conclusions being drawn from these. We have even attempted to take two very "unlike" specimens, as far as measurement variances, and gaited them together on the same film, noting how the variances affect the gait of each. The results, again, are most interesting and revealing.

We realize that measuring is not the 'be-all' or the "end-all" of breed clarification, but it is a very definite means of teaching us conclusively about the anatomy of our breed, which by itself, has untold values.

The Fall Specialty Show will be held in Kansas City, Mo, on Sept. 29. AKC approval has not yet been received on the judges, but I'm sure that whoever is approved will give an added impetus to make this Midwest Specialty a real recorder-breaker. There will be a Pupy Sweepstakes in conjunction with the regular classes and I think the Sweepstakes is the showcase of the breed as it is most interesting to follow the show careers of these promising youngsters. To all of you who have been so kind and thoughtful to me in offering to care for my Westies until I am feeling better, may I again thank you with my heartfelt gratitude. I have had to make a most difficult decision, but my love of, and continued interest in, Westies shall remain stronger than ever.
